

design for life

creating meaning
in a distracted world

may 3rd, 12:00 p.m.
lecture in the PIT
architecture building

guest lecturer:

Stuart Walker

Stuart Walker is Chair of Design for Sustainability at Lancaster University, UK where he co-founded a design department and a dedicated design research centre. He is also an Emeritus Professor at University of Calgary.

His distinctive practice-based research explores the environmental, social and spiritual aspects of sustainability. His conceptual designs have been exhibited in Canada, Australia, Italy, at the Design Museum, London and most recently at Brantwood, John Ruskin's house in the English Lake District.

His books include: Sustainable by Design; The Spirit of Design; The Handbook of Design for Sustainability (with J. Giard), and Designing Sustainability. His latest books are Design for Life, published by Routledge in April 2017, and Design Roots: local products and practices in a globalized world in December 2017.

